ANNOUNCEMENT

New online management system helps you manage your AMHSA training information with ease

On Monday, Jan. 9, 2017, AMHSA is implementing a new training management system to better manage your user/training experience.

The system will integrate our online and classroom training experience into one database that is seamless, user-friendly and secure, and will help all AMHSA users keep track of their Occupational Health and Safety (OHS) training.

For management and others who oversee OHS training in their organization, this will allow you to store and track employee training records, schedule online learning, and have access to employee certificates.

Benefits to using this system
Whether you are a manager overseeing the training process, or an employee accessing AMHSA's OHS courses, the system will enable you to:

- Quickly access and view the training calendar and course information from anywhere, anytime.
- Better organize and schedule your course training
- Easily access and review account information on a secure platform
- Streamline the learning and training process
- Review training, course, and certification history and progress

Your next steps
In the past, you likely received your course notification from info@amhsa.net. Beginning Monday, correspondence (such as course enrollment confirmation), will come from mailer@bistrainer.com. Please make note of this and add the address to your 'safe' contacts.
