

WCB Alberta Update

26

Supporting psychological health and safety

We are pleased to partner with the University of Fredericton to offer Alberta employers exclusively reduced rates to online certificate programs in the following areas of study:

Psychological health & safety in the workplace, and
Enhancing workplace resiliency

Courses are available at the basic, manager and advanced level. Course overviews, including pricing and registration links are available on our website.

Training-on-the-job (TOJ) resources

The TOJ program is designed to help people who are no longer able to go back to their regular job or employer. The worker develops skills and gains work experience while you receive financial and other support from WCB during your new employee's training period.

You can learn more about our TOJ program online, including a great video that provides a quick overview of the benefits. We have made some changes to the TOJ section of our website and have also created a great video overview of the program itself.

PIR Rebates

Just over 10,500 employers received a Partnerships in Injury Reduction (PIR) refund this year, sharing over $76 million in rebates for their 2019 performance. PIR refund cheques were mailed out to qualifying employers on Monday, May 11.

COVID-19

Returning to in person visits for treatment programs based on Alberta's relaunch strategy.

While some in-person services may have been available as of May 4, they need to be provided in accordance with the safety recommendations including appropriate personal protective equipment as well as screening practices
